Doumergue's Cabinet Resigns; Laval To Reorganize

SALVATION GOVERNMENT ENDS RULE

Premier Resigns After He Loses Majority Support at Meeting Today

CROWDS REMAIN QUIET

Anticipation of Possible Riots in Streets Not Realized After Crisis

BULLETIN

PARIS, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Pierre Laval, named today to form a cabinet to replace that of Gaston Doumergue, informed President Albert Lebrun after consultation with political leaders that he could not do so.

Lebrun then asked Pierre-Etienne Flandin, Doumergue's minister of public works, a left Republican, to try to form a cabinet.

Premier Gaston Doumergue, recalled from retirement in the crisis precipitated by the bloody Stavisky riots of February, left the cabinet because his plan for constitutional reform was rejected.

By agreement, Laval tried to reform the government without him. As the cabinet resigned after a morning meeting, police and republican guards were stationed at public buildings in anticipation of possible riots by Parisians.

The Socialist party, which, with the Communists represents the opposition to the government coalition, sent out a call for its militant elements—its street demonstrators—to be ready for action.

The order was issued, Socialist leaders said, because they learned that Fascist groups had sent out a similar order.

"It is possible that after starting riots, the Fascist bands will try in the next few days to start a specific action," said the Socialist call. "We are capable of erecting before them larger and more solid barriers than during last February."

The cabinet met nine hours to the day, almost the whole day, after Doumergue, called from retirement to lead a coalition government during the February riots, was cheered in the streets of Paris as a national hero and a savior.

Radical Socialist leaders, who refused to accept the plan for constitutional reform, at the outset of the cabinet meeting read in parliament "These in effect regretted the plan."

Doumergue had written out his own resignation after breakfast. He took it from his pocket, and before reading it said:

"I know what I have to do. I can not remain in office without a majority. I would be accused of trying to play dictator."

Edouard Herriot, minister without portfolio and leader of the radical Socialist party, said in behalf of himself that his five radical Socialist cabinet ministers, that he thought it best for the entire cabinet to resign.

Otherwise, he said, it would be overturned in the chamber of deputies and street disorders might be incited.

The resignation was announced officially outside the Elysee palace to a great crowd. The masses received it calmly.

GOV. RITCHIE LOSES GOVERNORSHIP RACE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's bid for a record term of service as governor of an American state failed today when final returns showed his Republican opponent, Harry W. Nice, Baltimore attorney, victorious.

Nice's final plurality was expected to be about 4000 votes. With only 17 precincts unreported, he led by 3800 votes and his election was a mathematical certainty. He becomes Maryland's third Republican governor since the Civil war.

Ritchie's defeat came after four terms as Maryland's governor. He had bid for a fifth term which would have given him 19 years in the office.

MERRIAM'S VOTE IN COUNTY DOUBLE THAT OF SINCLAIR

INFLATION AND BONUS SUPPORT GAIN STRENGTH

Bourbon Senators Elected Are Two to One Favoring Soldier Bonus

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Powerful inflation and bonus strength in the next congress was revealed by United Press election charts today.

Coupled with pronounced left wing tendencies of many new members, these issues arose out of the election as certain to harrow President Roosevelt in attempting to keep congress from meddling with the currency or paying off $2,000,000,000 to the veterans.

Democratic senators elected were two to one for the bonus which has inflation tied up with it. A total of 118 members of the next house are out and out inflationists. A total of 178 house members are aligned for the "greenback" payoff of the bonus.

Late returns today from congressional districts indicated the administration had 310 members and possibly would pass the 313 figure, the number of Democrats elected in 1932. Vacancies have occurred since. Senate two-thirds majority is conceded. But these unprecedented off-year majorities will lack New Deal cohesion.

Some observers believed that despite the unwieldy majorities, the national vote of confidence in the president evidence would aid in keeping Democratic recalcitrants in line.

Democrats definitely elected to the house totaled 310 Republicans 99. Third party groups in the house will contain at least four LaFollette progressives from Wisconsin and two Minnesota Farmer-Laborites.

It was believed certain that with reduced Republican house ranks, particularly in the east, western progressives would attempt to defeat Minority Leader Bertrand Snell, (R), N. Y., in favor of someone from beyond the Mississippi. Less conservative Republican members have opposed Snell for several years.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE SUICIDE OF PAUL BERN

Investigation is Made in Connection with Probe Into Fitts' Office

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—(UP)—The grand jury today issued subpoenas for all records and files of the district attorney's office in the suicide death of Paul Bern, film executive and husband of Jean Harlow, platinum blond screen star.

The move was in connection with the further investigation of the activities of District Attorney Buron Fitts' office. Fitts already has been indicted on a perjury charge as has his sister and confidential secretary, Mrs. Bertha Gregory.

Fitts, in admitting the subpoenas had been issued, said he had no idea what, if any, part the Bern suicide incident should play in the present grand jury investigation. Members of the jury declined to comment on their action.

Bern's suicide September 5, 1932, was one of the most sensational and tragic in the screen colony's history.

Leaving a cryptic note to Miss Harlow, to whom he had been married only a short time, he died with a bullet through his head in his bedroom in their "honeymoon home."

The note, never explained, read: "Dearest dear: Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. You understand last night was only a comedy."

The inquest failed to turn up an explanation of the note and Miss Harlow professed not to understand it. The coroner's jury finally recorded his death as a suicide.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 8.—(UP)—The entire town of Cherrytree on the Indiana-Cambria county line, was feared destroyed by fire today after a gasoline truck exploded at a service station.

Communication with the town, which has a population of 550, was severed shortly after first reports of the fire reached here.

There are only two telephone lines into Cherrytree. Both were burned out.

First reports said the gasoline truck, unloading at Cyrus Green's station, blew up and started the fire which spread quickly.

Clover Farms store, and R. H. Dunlap's store, in two-story brick buildings across from Green's station, were destroyed. The flames leaped to adjoining houses. Cherrytree has no fire equipment.

Unofficial Returns Are Made Public

Haight Defeats Sinclair in Santa Ana; Johnson Vote is Largest

GOV. FRANK F. MERRIAM'S lead over Upton Sinclair in Orange county was shown to be 12,917, or almost 2 to 1, it was shown today by complete unofficial returns announced by County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Merriam polled 26,631, Sinclair 13,714, and Raymond Haight 9106, Haight ran second in Santa Ana, defeating Sinclair.

Official canvasses of the vote and the count of absent voter ballots will be started next Monday by the county supervisors. Absent voter ballots can be received up to that time, when it will be learned how many of the 914 that were issued actually will be cast.

No contests are expected to be changed by the absent vote, with the possible exception of one or two constable races.

The unofficial totals showed Sheriff Logan Jackson with a margin of 4734 votes over Don Wilkie, the count being 23,367 to 18,443. District Attorney S. J. Kaufman held a lead of 2746 over B. Z. McKinney, the vote being 21,634 to 18,888. County Recorder Justine Whitney's margin over Harold Yost was 1361, the count being 20,711 to 19,350.

MORE THAN 50,000 BALLOTS CAST BY ORANGE COUNTY ON TUESDAY; S. A. SETS RECORD

THE FULL proportions of the tremendous vote cast in Orange county Tuesday, unrealized during the confusion of tabulating the ballots yesterday, were disclosed today with the announcement of complete vote totals, showing that more than 50,000 ballots were cast.

This represented an astounding 27 per cent of the actual voters in the county, according to County Clerk Joe Backs, being 74 per cent of the official registration, which he said he believed contains several thousand "dead" registrations of voters who have removed from the county.

The vote on candidates for governor totaled 49,552, without counting absent voter ballots, which will be canvassed next Monday. County Clerk J. M. Backs had issued 914 absent voter ballots, and estimated that at least 850 of them will be cast. That number would bring the vote total to 50,402, which is approximately 76 per cent of the 66,000 official registration. Backs, however, estimates the actual voting strength of the county at 61,500, which would increase the percentage of Tuesday's balloting to 82.

Santa Ana contributed most heavily to this high percentage, due to organized effort toward getting out the vote, on the part of civic organizations and service clubs. One Santa Ana precinct, No. 21, located at John Muir school, reported a full 100 per cent vote, every one of its 184 voters being brought to the polls.

The vote on law enforcement officers of Orange county and San Diego county offered a curious counterpart. The district attorney in each county defeated an opponent named McKinney. In each county, the sheriff was opposed by an ex-secret service agent. The parallel ended there, however, as in Orange county, Sheriff Logan Jackson defeated his opponent, while in San Diego county, Sheriff Ed Cooper was beaten by Ernest W. Dort, the secret service man.

The vote on candidates for governor was far ahead of that on the other contests, the next nearest being the lieutenant-governor contest, which drew 47,539.

On county contests, the vote for sheriff was highest, at 42,316. The district attorney contest drew 40,522 votes, and the recorder's race 40,081 votes.

The highest vote cast on an amendment was 42,581, which went to No. 2, the liquor licensing proposal. The next highest vote was on local option, No. 13, which was 41,001.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Rehabilitation of California's unemployed was the major problem facing the state's newly elected officials today as thoughts were turned toward a legislative program which must aid in providing jobs and meeting campaign pledges.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam, retained in office by a plurality of 240,000 votes over his major opponent, Upton Sinclair, planned to return to Sacramento next week and resume deliberations on legislative and budgetary matters interrupted by the strenuous campaign.

Sinclair, refusing to drop his Epic plans, just because the electorate declined to give them an official trial, rallied his forces and promised to extend his organization over the entire Pacific coast.

Most election issues were decided so definitely that completion of unofficial returns ceased in most quarters as county clerks began their official tally. The latest count, obtained on returns from 10,322 of the state's 10,721 precincts, showed:

Governor: Merriam, Republican, 1,980,552; Sinclair, Democrat, 839,241; Haight, Progressive-commonwealth, 289,434. Merriam's plurality, 241,221.

Lieutenant governor: George J. Hatfield, Republican, 1,035,224; Sheridan Downey, Epic-Democrat, 853,461. Hatfield's majority, 181,763.

Merriam met in Long Beach with political advisers and close friends to discuss unemployment problems and the idea of seeking additional federal cooperation in providing work and wages for 425,000 men without jobs.

"We will try any workable plan to meet the situation," Merriam said. "I am convinced that hasty action is not the road to permanent recovery, but as a temporary expedient we will try barter, co-operatives or any other idea which may be successful in satisfying our unemployed people."

Relief proposals will be studied for the purpose of preparing definite recommendations for submission to the legislature in January. Meanwhile, the present federal-state system of providing part time jobs under the SERRA will be continued.

Spoken appeared to be an outspoken demand for a change; for a progressive program that will handle unemployment problems more satisfactorily. And everywhere one could hear the question as to what will happen next.

The Naturopathic proposal, No. 17, was snowed under an adverse vote of 27,602 to 10,093, taking the worst beating of any of the proposals. Its "running mate," No. 9, the chiropractic proposal, fared little better, being defeated, 26,610 to 13,198. A spirited campaign by the Orange County Division of the California Public Health League had been waged against both measures.

Local option lost by a vote of 22,956 to 17,003, and No. 2, the liquor control bill, was defeated, 23,115 to 19,466, the wet and dry thus dividing victory and defeat.

The proposal to elect members of the state board of education went down under a vote of 20,990 to 11,713. Appointment of superior court judges failed by a vote of 16,916 to 12,870, thousands of voters skipping this proposal, as they did the proposal to elect such judges by districts, which was defeated, 15,129 to 10,235.

The water resources measure lost, 20,962 to 10,299, and the state indebtedness proposition was defeated, 12,305 to 10,898.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must get at the cause—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels.

ITALIAN NOVELIST WINS NOBEL PRIZE

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Lui Pirandello, famous Italian dramatist and novelist, today was awarded the Nobel literary prize. Selected from a host of American and European literary figures, Pirandello was given the famous award which last year went to Ivan Bunin, Russian author, and which normally is worth about $45,000. The amount varies from year to year.

Pirandello was born in Girgenti, Sicily, in 1867 and was educated at Rome and the University of Bonn.

His best known writings include: "As You Desire Me," "Six Characters in Search of an Author," "The Man With the Flower in His Mouth," "The Mock Emperor," "The Life I Gave You."

M'GROARTY VICTOR IN CONGRESS RACE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—(UP)—John Stephen McGroarty, elderly journalist and poet laureate of California, was returned today a comfortable winner in his quest for a seat in congress.

Late returns gave McGroarty a 10,000 plurality over W. E. Evans, R., his leading opponent. McGroarty is a Democrat.

UPSETS RECORDED IN TOWNSHIP OFFICES

Complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's election issued today by County Clerk J. M. Backs, verify the early returns from the various state and county contests, but reveal several upsets of incumbents in township offices, which were not shown by the first reports yesterday.

Constable C. J. Errecarte, of San Juan township, was defeated by former Deputy Sheriff Jack Combs by 18 votes, the count being 472 to 454. In Laguna Beach township, Constable C. R. Clapp lost to E. T. Cresce by 47 votes, the totals being 682 to 635. While both races were close, and subject to change by the official canvass, and the absent voter ballots, it was believed that the leads of both Combs and Cresce were safe.

One constable race probably to be decided by the absent voters, however, was that in Anaheim township where Deputy Sheriff Sam Snodgrass, of the fruit patrol, held a margin of 48 votes over the veteran constable, Ed Marion. Snodgrass polled 3789 to 3741 for Marion. It was regarded as an outside chance that the result might be changed.

Constable Joe B. Mitchell, of Fullerton, also was defeated, running 93 votes behind W. H. Skillman, the count being 2431 to 2338. It was believed that there was little chance of change there.

The other township official unseated in the election was Justice D. L. McCharles, of Tustin, who lost to D. T. Hayden, 777 to 622. Justice Chris P. Pann, of Huntington Beach, defeated Lyndon J. Wells, 1668 to 1517, and Justice D. J. Dodge, of Newport Beach township, won from Harry D. Hyde, 1296 to 1057, in the other justice contests.

Constable William Ponting defeated Lloyd Willcutt, 1768 to 803 in Newport Beach township; B. H. Dunlavy beat Harry Manspurg, 1749 to 1577, in the recent contest for the vacancy left by Constable Gale Bergey at Huntington Beach.

In Santa Ana township, Charles F. Mitchell was shown to have a margin of 413 votes over Deputy Constable William Leach, for the office of Constable Cornish Roehm, who was defeated at the primary. Mitchell polled 6109 to 5696 for Leach.

HAUSNER HOPES TO MAKE POLISH HOP

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Stanley Hausner, Polish-American aviator who for 14 of his 35 years has stuck doggedly to a dream of spanning the Atlantic, hopes to make the third attempt a success this fall.

Twice his non-stop flight, New York to Warsaw, Poland, ended in failure, but not despair.

The Newark, N. J., motion picture operator, who has wanted to cross the Atlantic since he was 21, is making final arrangements for a Detroit-Warsaw solo flight of some 5000 miles.

If successful this time, he will be first to:

1. Negotiate the eastward crossing from America to Poland.
2. Span the ocean from a take-off west of New York.

The site of his starting point has not yet been definitely decided, although Hausner believes it will be Detroit, center of a large Polish group. He recently came here to study condition of the city's airports, and to obtain support of Polish organizations for his proposed flight.

NUDIST SHORTEN LIVES

ST LOUIS, Mo.—(UP)—Nudists are making a serious mistake by exposing themselves so entirely, to the rays of the sun, Dr. Carl Loeb holds that sunlight increases the speed of metabolism and causes the human body to age more rapidly, when given in such an "over dose." Although the human body requires some sunlight it does not warrant the complete and constant exposure, as advocated by the nudists, he says.

ODD RUG DESIGN

WILLOWS, Cal.—(UP)—Howard Allard, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allard was too young to be seeing snakes in his bedroom, so when he informed his mother of the visitor she marveled at his imagination. But a few minutes later when what seemed to be a design in the rug wriggled across the floor, Mrs. Allard made a dash for the door and called her husband. A small garter snake was found.

KITTEN TRAVELS

WHEATLAND, Cal.—(UP)—A. C. Stinemann of Wheatland gave a little black kitten to Kenneth Dempsey of Smartville. The animal was contented in its new home until the Dempseys went away for a day, then it disappeared. Three days later it showed up at the place of its birth—a distance of 20 miles.

JEAN HARLOW WILL ASK FOR DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Jean Harlow, the screen's thrice-married platinum blonde, was reported today planning to institute divorce action immediately against Hal Rosson, cameraman.

Rosson is in England working for a British company, and Miss Harlow was reported to have tried vainly to get in touch with him. Failing, she was said to have determined to "go ahead and get things cleared up."

Miss Harlow eloped to Arizona to marry Rosson a year ago, approximately a year after the death of her second husband, Paul Bern, film producer who committed suicide by shooting himself. Miss Harlow's first marriage, a schoolgirl elopement, was to Charles McGrew, young Chicago heir.

She separated from Rosson approximately six months ago.

ENGINEER GUEST OF HARBOR CLUB

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 8.—Capt. A. C. Cruise, United States Army engineer recently appointed to the Los Angeles district office for work on the Newport harbor federal improvement project, was guest of honor at Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Newport Harbor Service Club, speaking briefly of the work to be done on the harbor project. Cruise was transferred from the Philippine Islands to Los Angeles November 1.

C. C. Hildebrand, resident engineer in charge of the harbor work, gave a resume of work already accomplished on the project, stating that 26,000 tons of "B" rock had been dumped so far, and that work on the jetty extensions would go straight through to a finish, with the purchase of two new barges for this work by Rohl Connolly Company.

In the absence of any regular speaker, members of the club gave three-minute sketches of their activities in the past year. It was decided to allow Capt. C. Cruise to speak at the club November 16 minutes speaking time at the next meeting of the club November 14 in order to explain the work of the Salvation Army, although the group voted against allowing any solicitation at club meetings.

RICKENBACKER OFF ON RECORD FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—(UP)—The bright new Douglas airliner in which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and assistants are trying to break the transcontinental transport record was 200 miles east of Albuquerque, N. M., 930 miles from here, shortly after 9:45 a. m. (P.S.T.), the crew radioed headquarters here.

The plane's position showed an approximate average speed of 138 miles an hour. It was running almost exactly on Rickenbacker's schedule. He expected a brisk tailwind from Denver east, hoping thereby to step up speed to the 200-mile-or-more average necessary to break the existing record for land planes, held by Col. Roscoe Turner.

The present transport record of 13 hours, two minutes, however, seemed certain to fall.

nothing in them of an intimate nature. They were only concerned with business matters," Doke said. "Now Helen has been quoted in reference to these letters, but refuses to reveal their contents as if I had something to hide."

The district attorney was expected to complete his final argument shortly, and there was every indication that Superior Judge Neal Chalmers would finish his charge to the jury of eight men and four women early this afternoon.

Cocker Spaniels To Be Exhibited

An exhibition of five cocker spaniel dogs, all champions, will be held all day Saturday at the Neal Sporting Goods store, 209 East Fourth street, it was learned today from Mrs. T. J. Neal.

The five dogs have earned for themselves the title of the "five most lovable dogs in America," according to Mrs. Neal, because of their long silky ears, honest pleading faces, gentleness and dignity of manner.

The exhibition is free and dog lovers are invited to come and see these dogs.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 8.—(To the Editor of The Register)—The Republicans have had a saying for some time, "The Roosevelt honeymoon is over." They were mighty poor judges of a loveless couple. Why, he and the people have got a real love match, and it looks like it would run for at least six years. If there is one thing the Republican party has got to learn it is that you can't get votes by just denouncing. You got to offer some plan of your own. They only had one platform, "Elect us, and maybe we can think of something to do after we get in, but up to now we haven't thought of it, but give us a chance we may."

Townsend Club To Be Organized

Organization of a Townsend club is scheduled at a meeting announced today, to be held at the Orange Avenue Christian church, Orange avenue and McFadden street, at 7:30 p. m. Friday. There are now 56 Townsend clubs in the city.

A speaker, not yet selected, will be sent to the meeting from Townsend headquarters in Long Beach, it was stated.

69 DEMOCRATS TO FILL SEATS IN NEW SENATE

framed from direct attacks upon the New Deal. His survival has increased the speculation regarding the likelihood of his becoming a Republican presidential possibility, in 1936.

Sen. Warren R. Austin, R., Vt., took no positive position in opposition to President Roosevelt's policies and the other re-elected Republicans, including the somewhat doubtful contests in New Mexico and North Dakota, have been more in favor of the New Deal than against it.

Instead of the constant sniping from Sens. Simeon D. Fess, R., O., and Arthur R. Robinson, R., Ind., Mr. Roosevelt will have the cooperation of Vice Dunsen and Sherman Minton. There will be no one in the senate capable of presenting the conservative Republican viewpoint so forcefully as Sen. David A. Reed, defeated in Pennsylvania by Joseph F. Guffey.

JOE E. BROWNEAT
BROADWAY THEATER

What is said to be the funniest film in which Joe E. Brown, the wide-mouthed comedian has been started, opens at the Broadway theater today for a three-day run. The picture, "Six Day Ride," portrays Brown as the village wise-cracker, the local Don Juan who gets into the most ridiculous situations imaginable through his bragging.
A talented cast of comedy players are in the important roles, including Frank McHugh, Maxine Doyle and Gordon Westcott.
Selected short subjects include the latest Mickey Mouse cartoon, "Mickey Plays Papa," a new cartoon adventure, "On Foreign Service," a novelty, "The Spectacle Maker," and Register World Newsreels.

COUNTY POLL OFFICIALS TO GET $10,262

The long day-and-night job of handling the largest vote ever polled in Orange county, and tabulating the results, earned each of the 1465 election officials in the county the sum of $7 each, it was decided yesterday when the county supervisors fixed the compensation at that figure.

The county's election payroll thus reached $10,262 for the 245 precincts. Every precinct has six members of the election board, with the exception of two, El Toro and Trabuco, each of which has four. These precincts have less than 100 registered voters, so are entitled by law to only four election officials. Precincts with more than 100 registered have six.

Election officials generally agreed that they had earned their money at this election. Long ballots and a heavy vote prolonged their task of tabulating the results long into the night, their day having started at 5:45 a. m. With many of them it was a shift of almost 24 hours. The last precinct to report at the court house was Costa Mesa No. 5, which came in at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Fixing of election board pay was the chief business before the supervisors yesterday. The board also granted renewal of a dance hall license to J. Martinez, at Seventeenth street and Garden Grove road.

HELD FOR TRIAL ON MORALS CHARGES

Charged with contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, Numa Mariborough was bound over to the superior court at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing today in the Santa Ana justice court.

Philip Rose, originally charged with Mariborough with the offense, was discharged by Judge Kenneth Morrison on a motion by Defense Attorney Otto Jacobs which was not contested by Deputy District Attorney J. E. Walker.

The two youths were alleged to have enticed two girls, one 15 years old and the other 17, to spend the night with them in an apartment on September 19. Two other youths, neither of whom have been located by officers, were named in the complaint.

Mariborough's bail, originally set at $1500, was reduced to $500 by Judge Morrison upon his attorney's request.

NEW DEAL FOR WHITE HOUSE

President Roosevelt soon will enjoy a new deal in office space. The enlargement and modernization of the Executive Office building on the White House grounds in Washington, D. C., are now nearly completed. How nearly ready for his occupancy it can be judged from exterior of the building in the foreground. The roof has been raised to provide an extra floor of offices and extensions have further enlarged the building. In the background is the White House.

HOME BADLY DAMAGED BY EARLY BLAZE

The entire roof and part of the wall at the home of Mrs. Nickles Romero, 523 East Third street, were burned at 7:30 a. m. today when fire swept through the frame dwelling.

The roof was all ablaze before firemen were called but the rest of the house was saved and most of the furniture removed. Damage to the building was estimated at $500 and loss on contents was set at $100.

Mrs. Romero, who was ill with pneumonia, was carried to safety by members of the family before parts of the roof started falling in.

The fire was caused when sparks from an overheated wood stove set the roof afire because of a broken chimney, according to fire officials.

CLUB EXPRESSES THANKS TO PAPER

The American Democracy Club of Orange county, today extended formal thanks to The Register and its publisher, for contribution of space in the newspaper to the full discussion of issues in the recent election.

The Register's attitude in "thus presenting all viewpoints" to its readers was commended as "fair," in the communication received from Secretary C. Harold Dale.

"The officers, directors, and more than three thousand members of the American Democracy Club of Orange county, wish to extend their thanks to you and your paper for the news stories and publicity matter given to the activities of our Democratic organization during the campaign just closed."

"While we operated under the handicap of limited finances and could not use the advertising columns of your paper as we would have wished, we feel that you were most fair in presenting all sides of the various platforms and arguments and that voters should appreciate the many columns of free space donated to us and other organizations so that all viewpoints were given to the readers."

"This letter expresses our real appreciation, and is sent you after the close of the campaign and not for publicity purposes."

"Again thanking you for your most friendly cooperation."

Nelson Eddy To Open Series Of Beach Concerts

Nelson Eddy, tenor, who was recently featured in the opera, "The Secret of Suzanne" at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles, and in M. G. M.'s "Student Tour," will appear in Laguna Beach November 17, as the first performer on the Laguna Artists Series, sponsored by the Music Lover's club.

On that night he will sing a varied program of the classics, but when Eddy sings he gives what might be termed a "double program," for his popularity makes it necessary for him to sing so many encores of the favorite popular type that his concert is never over when his program is finished, it is said. He has won wide popularity with his renditions of "Home on the Range," and "The Last Roundup."

SPECIALISTS TO OPEN COURSE HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

A class in salesmanship, human nature and self-development will hold its first meeting next Friday night at 8 o'clock, in the American Legion hall on Birch street.

The course will be conducted by David G. Gerard and Oliver E. Behymer, members of the Institute of Personal Economics, who recently gave a series of lectures in the Willard School auditorium, under the sponsorship of The Register.

A number of business firms and their personnel are enrolled. Gerard will handle the technique of selling, while Behymer will deal with the personal elements that enter into successful human relations.

Gerard has trained salesmen in 23 states. He has been employed to promote sales by many important firms in California. Behymer has for years conducted successful classes in applied psychology in the East.

The Institute of Personal Economics called attention to the following facts: Business methods are changing rapidly. New selling methods are coming in. Old ways of doing are going out. Science is remaking the world. Personal adjustments are imperative to meet the changing conditions. Only the alert and the trained may hope to compete successfully in the new prosperity which is getting under way.

Those in charge of the course explain that while this is a class in salesmanship and personality development, it will also be of value to those not directly engaged in selling, but who contact the public.

The first lecture is open to the public without charge.

HEARING DATE SET IN AUTO DEATH CASE

Charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid after an accident, Horace Plumb, 18-year-old Colorado youth now a Tustin high school senior, was arraigned in the Santa Ana justice court yesterday and had his preliminary hearing set for November 15 at 9 a. m.

Judge Kenneth Forsgren set bail at $5000, which the youth has failed to post. He has been held in jail without bail since last Thursday night, when he surrendered himself 24 hours after a wreck on North Main street which claimed the life of Mrs. Mary Moore, 67, 1813 North Main street.

Plumb was held negligent in his driving and guilty of failure to stop and render aid by a coroner's jury Monday at the Winbiger funeral home. Testimony was given to the effect that Plumb and six other youths were on their way from one dance hall to another at the time the elderly woman was struck, and that he failed to stop his car and report to police. All the youths had been drinking before the wreck, it was said by the boys.

SCHOOL BOARD BUYS LAND FOR VALENCIA HIGH

PLACENTIA, Nov. 8.—The Placentia Board of education voted to purchase the five-acre LeRoy Grimm ranch immediately north of the Bradford avenue school at a price of $8500 and employed T. C. Kistner, of Anaheim, to prepare plans for a new Valencia high school, at a meeting held this morning. It was announced that the purchase price includes four shares of Anaheim Union Water company stock and that the taxes for 1934 have been paid.

The board took an option on the five-acre C. E. Halber tract east of the school property, with the plan in mind of turning this land into an athletic field. Ownership of this tract would permit the construction of a road from Bradford avenue to Kraemer avenue.

The sum of $35,000 is available for the construction of the high school. The high school is now housed in Calvary church as grammar school students are occupying quarters in the Bradford school formerly used by the high school students. The change became necessary when a portion of the Bradford school was destroyed by fire recently.

The Epic-Democratic movement in California and in Orange county will continue and it will grow until it is successful. Harry S. Gerhart, Democratic campaign manager said yesterday on returning from State Democratic headquarters. "We did not enlist in a political campaign with a political slogan just for the purpose of a political victory. We pledged ourselves to the solving of our economic problems, the relief of distress and the ending of poverty. The war is not ended with one skirmish. We will fight every step of the way."

Democratic forces in Santa Ana plan a mass meeting for Friday at the Temple theater at 8 p. m. with a prominent speaker of Los Angeles on the subject, "Forward California, or Who Won the Greater Victory?" There will be other speakers.

Gerhart took part yesterday in a conference of Southern California Democrats at State headquarters at which time Upton Sinclair, Sheridan Downey, Culbert Olson, Richard Otto and other leaders presented plans for the immediate and further activities of the movement.

PAY TRIBUTE TO PADRE'S MEMORY

Pictured here is the tomb of Monsignor St. John O'Sullivan, for 25 years padre of the San Juan Capistrano Mission, where he was brought to rest yesterday. Grouped about the tomb are the Fathers Arthur Hutchinson, Felix Moreno, Gabriel Ryan, Augustine Holbracht, and Charles Knebel, who assisted in yesterday's services. Many of Father O'Sullivan's friends and the active pallbearers are included in the picture.

BELOVED PADRE LAID TO REST IN MEMORIAL SERVICE AT CAPISTRANO MISSION

To the accompaniment of the low chanting of Mission acolytes, and the tolling of the old mission bells, the Right Reverend Monsignor St. John O'Sullivan, beloved padre of San Juan Capistrano Mission, was laid to rest yesterday in the Indian burial ground, in the shadow of the stone church of the mission.

Father O'Sullivan gave 25 years of his life to the restoration of the historic old mission, and when on July 22, 1933, he died, he numbered his friends among the thousands. Yesterday hundreds joined in the solemn procession through the beautiful mission gardens. Many of the Capistrano Indians whom Father O'Sullivan had befriended joined in a last tribute to their father.

Today parishioners, friends, and many priests of Southern California joined in memorial services at the mission as the tomb of Father O'Sullivan was blessed and a memorial plaque to his memory erected. Bishop John Cantwell of Los Angeles delivered the requiem address at today's services, with Father Arthur Hutchinson of the Mission, and Father Gabriel Ryan of the Laguna Church of St. Catherine singing the mass.

Monsignor O'Sullivan's body was brought yesterday from the receiving vault at Calvary cemetery, Los Angeles, to San Clemente, where the procession to the mission was formed. Accompanied by a motorcycle police escort, the cavalcade moved to San Juan Capistrano, where it entered the mission grounds at 10:30 a. m. Here the chorus and acolytes joined the procession to the burial grounds.

Father Felix Moreno, of the church of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Santa Ana, delivered the memorial address yesterday at the tomb, speaking to the assembled mourners and parishioners in Spanish. High tribute was paid by Father Moreno to the work of Monsignor O'Sullivan, as he urged each of his hearers to follow in their leader's footsteps.

Among the friends and mourners of the padre yesterday were his two brothers, Father Anthony O'Sullivan, and Michael O'Sullivan, his sister, Lucy O'Sullivan, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank O'Sullivan, and his niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pan-

MORTON'S SALT

THIS CHANGE Helps Children

Intestinal Irritation in many growing girls and boys can be traced to one mistake.

Are you making this mistake with your children? The "liquid test" will tell.

"What is this 'liquid test' they talk about?" ask mothers. Just this: a simple way of finding out if any boy or girl with irregular or insufficient bowel movements is in need of relief, or is getting the wrong treatment.

Doctors urge a liquid laxative for children. The child who has been convalescing in a hospital will often come out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch. Hospitals give children a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, suitable strength, and in suitable amount.

The Proper Treatment
Give that sluggish child a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not upset them.

Just give any headachy, bilious child a little of this gentle laxative when constipated, and a little less if dose is repeated until the bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

How to Begin
Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts.

So, get a bottle of California Syrup of Figs from your druggist, and start tonight, if your child is constipated, giving a good, cleansing dose. Repeat if necessary, giving a little less each time. That's the secret of this treatment—gradually reduced dosage.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you'll risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer and more satisfactory result, too.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

This is the way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

AVERAGE COST OF GOVERNMENT HERE IS $17.32

The cost of county government to every person in Orange county amounts to $17.32 annually while taxable valuation here is estimated at $1252 per capita, it was revealed today in a report from the California Taxpayers' association. Californians spend $110,000,000 each year to maintain their county governments, which includes appropriations for protection to persons and property, administration of justice, improvement and maintenance of county roads, sanitation and protection of health and care of indigent.

For these and other county functions, each person theoretically pays from $12 to $117 per year, depending upon the county in which he lives. The bulk of the revenue, however, is derived from property owners.

The $110,000,000 annual expenditure does not include the most of maintaining the city-county government of San Francisco.

Differences in per capita expenditures are very wide, and there is no specific explanation for the range, unless some county governments are organized more efficiently than others. Expenditures in Imperial county, sparsely settled, average $12.66 per capita, while those in Alpine, the state's smallest county, average $117.49.

Imperial, Placer, Solano, Santa Cruz and Santa Clara counties get along on just half the per capita expenditures of Ventura, Santa Barbara, Lassen, Sutter, Colusa, Calaveras and San Luis Obispo counties.

In nearly all instances, low per capita valuations and low expenditures are closely related, indicating that county government costs are higher when more money is available.

Figures show that population is not a primary factor in determining per capita expenditures, but rather that the direct relation seems to lie between expenditures and visible taxable wealth.

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallon

ASSISTANT PRESIDENT

There is a rather general idea

the outside that Donald Richberg has become the new No. 1 man; in fact, that he is a sort of assistant president.

It is beginning to get under Mr.

Richberg's skin, and probably also

President Roosevelt's. Both know that the quickest way to kill a man off in Washington is to project his nose out too far, so that everyone who comes along may take a punch at it. The nasal ward of the New Deal hospital is full of such examples.

What happened in the Richberg case was that Mr. Roosevelt a few days ago issued an executive order giving Mr. Richberg broad powers to act occasionally in his stead. No explanation was offered by the White House. The immediate interpretation was immediately broadcast that Mr. Roosevelt was under the spell of a new major influence. Some implied he had virtually abdicated.

TOES

Mr. Richberg is one of the smartest men on the unofficial board of New Deal strategy, but he is a long way from being No. 1 man or even assistant president.

The facts are these:

Some weeks ago, Mr. Richberg was slated to take the unofficial leadership of NRA reorganization.

Subsequently, the president got worried about the coordinating job.

He knew as well as anyone that coordination of various New Deal phases had NOT been successfully accomplished, but he had more hopes than most people that it could be done. Richberg was one of his best administrators, so the president declined to let him leave the coordinator's desk.

Conscientious Mr. Richberg took his job seriously. He job was to step on toes, and he did it with abandon. Certain cabinet officers man to the White House displaying their injured feet. Mr. Roosevelt read that and that Mr. Richberg was his coordinator, and what

Mr. Richberg said about coordina-ting must be done, toes or no

toes.

That did not work out very well.

The department leaders began to avoid Mr. Richberg. No one except the president was going to tell them how to run their departments or how to change their policies to fit in with other departments.

Mr. Richberg soon discovered that if he was going to get anywhere, he would have to be given full authority to act. That, and that only, is the reason for the executive order.

STATUS

It would probably be accurate to say that there are now four or five No. 1 men now functioning behind the New Deal. Among them are: Treasury Secretary

McCumber, Prof. Raymond Moley,

Interior Secretary Ickes and Richberg. You might also include

Secretary Louis Howe, and possibly some others. Each has his own sphere of influence.

Richberg's will be largely administrative; that is, in working on conflicts in policy between the various government departments.

MAPLE P.-T. A. ARRANGES FOR SCHOOL PARTY

FULLERTON, Nov. 8.—First plans for a Christmas party for school children in the Maple school were made Wednesday at a meeting of the Maple school Parent-Teacher association executive board with Mrs. J. O. Hayne presiding.

The executive meeting was part of a triple program, held at the home of Mrs. William Selfridge, North Raymond avenue. Mrs. V. Ashley Doss led an interesting study meeting at the morning session. She and Mrs. Rayne were in charge of the program. Mrs. C. E. Dorn assisted Mrs. Selfridge in serving a benefit luncheon.

Arrangements were made to hold another benefit luncheon at the home of Mrs. F. C. Matthews, 128 West Maple, on December 11. Mrs. William Schweiss is to be assisting hostess.

Arthur Corey will be featured speaker at the P.-T. A. meeting tonight at the school. A special fathers' night program is being given.

Among the comments made concerning the status of a separate project was one by Hiltcher, who said the county department has two men working at present on a survey and exhaustive report of costs of such a project. He said the Elliott report, made several years ago, did not include complete statements of the costs of separate projects in northern Orange county. Hiltcher said the one control project, as reported on by the Elliott survey, placed the cost of a project in northern Orange county at approximately $1,000,000.

The council informally urged a continued interest in the work, and a continued effort to get the flood hazard remedied.

A plan for cities of the county joining in a survey to determine municipal needs was endorsed and Mayor William Hale was appointed to join with other committees of the county.

The mayor was authorized to make application to the SERRA for labor for enclosing underground ditches of the Anaheim Union Water company, after the city government had proper papers ready for such activity. The cost to the city will not be figured in any cash outlay, while the city government will, in course of duty, supervise certain phases of the work.

The Commonwealth ball park, to cost in material about $1100, will be built with SERRA labor. If it carries through the committee. The fence will consist of seven-foot stone pillars, placed 20 feet apart about the park. Two tiers of board fence, each three and a half feet high, will be placed between the pillars, the upper tier to be lowered behind the lower tier during the daytime, and when no games are in progress, and the lower tier of fencing will be covered, on the street side, with high shrubs.

Other business included granting of permission to the Union Oil company to place a steel filling station on its property at Union avenue and North Spadra road; planning to change the ordinance on city licenses to provide for dry cleaning establishments with two faces of business, one outside the business district where work is done, and another a place for handling trade, under one license.

The ordinance on a revised parking program for territory around the high school had a first reading.

Consideration is to be given by the city to an ordinance covering sale of small electrical appliances and connections. The city attorney, Albert Launer, and the inspector for the city, Grover Walters, were appointed to look into the situation, when attention to certain kinds of appliances was brought to the attention of the trustees.

Fire Chief Davis was authorized to purchase a new type of mask for administration of oxygen.

It was also announced during the session that on November 13 the social club of the organization will meet with Mrs. Elizabeth Miller of South Dickey street for a pot luck luncheon.

FOUR PROJECTS DISCUSSED BY CITY COUNCIL

FULLERTON, Nov. 8.—Four improvement projects were before the city council at its session last night, including a proposed northern Orange county flood control plan.

Several angles of the flood menace were brought to the attention of the city, both by representatives of groups and by letter. In this connection, City Engineer Herman Hiltcher read a report of the damage done by the last heavy rain and also recommended some action be taken for adequate protection.

Jack Prizer appeared for the Placentia Orange Growers' association, calling attention to flood conditions in the Mexican camp, bringing to attention of councilmen the health menace that exists with water standing about and to the fact the camp is almost impossible of access during flood times.

Letters were read from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Muckenthaler and from Horace Head, the latter representing property owners, calling attention to damage done to property in recent floods.

In addition, the chamber of commerce sent a letter on behalf of a representative group of citizens of northern Orange county asking that city councilmen do all possible to further a water conservation and flood control project, separate from the Orange county project.

Among the comments made concerning the status of a separate project was one by Hiltcher, who said the county department has two men working at present on a survey and exhaustive report of costs of such a project. The REBELLION of Minnie Munch

"For nigh onto five years now," said Minnie Munch in a recent interview, "I have furnished milk for that tribe of young hootnannies—the Perkins children—the whole nine of them! There haven't been any N.R.A. hours for ME... just cud-chewing, cud-chewing, cud-chewing far, far into the night. Well, I'm sick of it. From now on I'm working union hours like everybody else! There's no reason on earth why I should work myself to the bone, now that Weber's bread has succeeded in actually TRIPPLING its content of vital elements found in milk. Calcium for building strong bones and teeth—iron oxide, phosphorus pentoxide . . . in fact the 8 vital elements my milk supplies, they'll find TREBLE in every slice of their favorite food—Weber's bread!"

The young Perkinses may be lackadaisical on the subject of calcium, but they certainly do a sensational disappearing act with Weber's bread, spread with fresh butter and jam! It's famous for . . .

Cooking School Attracts Large Crowd At Opening Yesterday

Baker, interested housewives and homemakers, young and old, thronged Veterans' hall yesterday afternoon for the opening session of the three day free fall cooking school, conducted by Mrs. Nina G. Abbey, home economist and domestic science authority.

Every woman is invited to be the guest of the cooking school which continues tomorrow. It was an enthusiastic capacity audience that greeted Mrs. Abbey yesterday.

Tamale Pie, a picture for the eyes and a treat for the palate, was one of the delightful features of the opening afternoon. This is such a dish as any one could enjoy eating and serving. The housewife choosing to serve it for luncheon for friends will be heaped with praise and the hungry husband will be very lavish with his praise when he tastes it.

Another one of the very delightful concoctions demonstrated by Mrs. Abbey was what she termed "Apple Freeze" made with whipped cream, applesauce, and oranges and made in an ice cream freezer. It not only sounds "yum-yum" but tastes perfectly delicious. And it's so simple to make that any housewife, even the busiest could thoroughly enjoy it.

Then there was a Whipped Cream Cake which is just as good as it sounds. Just another one of those very simple and very different recipes which Mrs. Abbey knows so much about.

Delightful Personality

One of the most outstanding things about this cookery expert is the fact that her recipes are different and her school is different. Her personality shined to the audience which received Mrs. Abbey most wholeheartedly and with much interest.

Throughout the cooking school Mrs. Abbey is featuring the ice refrigerator, entirely different from the old time ice box. The modern ice refrigerators have the ice compartment closed off, the doors are all sealed and heavily insulated and the interiors are lined with porcelain. During the cooking school Mrs. Abbey will explain the proper placement of food in the refrigerator.

The stage of Veterans' hall is equipped after the manner of the modern kitchen. O'Keefe and Merritt automatic gas ranges, ice refrigerators, and porcelain topped tables, easily cleaned and sanitary. Assisting in the cooking school are the Santa Ana Ice Company, Home Ice Company, Diamond Ice Company and Grand Central Market.

Two grand prizes will be presented at the concluding sessions of the cooking school. They are a 75-lb. ice refrigerator and an O'Keefe & Merritt gas range.

Each day there will be gifts presented through the courtesy of merchants and manufacturers.

Products being used at the cooking school include Ben Hur Coffee, tea and spices, Weber's bread, Jell Well deserts, Leslie's Salt, Calavo products, Cudahy Packing company, Del Monte canned goods, K. C. baking powder, Arrowhead water products. The gas range being used is being furnished by the Dickey Furniture company of Santa Ana.

Doors Open at 1:30 P. M. Doors at the Veterans' hall will open tomorrow for the last session of the cooking school, at 1:30 o'clock and the demonstration and lecture will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. And it will close promptly at 4 o'clock so that every woman will be home in sufficient time to prepare her dinner for the family.

Remember, every woman in Santa Ana and adjacent territory is invited to be the guest of sponsors tomorrow at the cooking demonstrations and lectures by Mrs. Nina G. Abbey.

Ben Hur Spices Used In Cooking School, Contests

Ben-Hur spices it is reported, have for many years been the most popular brand sold in the south-west. This great public acceptance has been attributed entirely to the quality. Ben-Hur spices are invariably chosen for demonstration cooking school. In cake baking contests Ben-Hur flavorings are preponderantly used by the winners.

Ben-Hur Spices are not only absolutely pure and guaranteed full strength—but they are thoroughly re-cleaned before they are ground in the Ben-Hur plant, making them more appetizing and healthful, as well as full flavored, according to Mrs. Nina Abbey, home economist.

BUENA PARK, Nov. 8.—Miss Trema Johnson is a house guest in the home of Mrs. Bess Simmons in Santa Ana.

Miss Veva Lopp of Homewood avenue, Fullerton junior college student, who has been seriously ill for some time, has withdrawn from the college.

Darrel Whitney, March field editor, has returned there after a brief visit spent here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bezona.

VALUE OF BREAD TO HEALTH TOLD

Bread contributes one-fourth of the body energy in the normal balanced diet, according to famous dietitians. "For ages, bread has been known as 'The Staff of Life' and justly so," says Dale Weber of the Weber Baking company. "Because bread is the chief and most economical source of elements that supply vitality. Recently, we perfected a method of tripling the content of eight vital elements in our bread, and our product now has a higher food value than ever before."

BAY FOOTBALL FANS CHUCKLE

PRICE FIXED EARLY IN YEAR

BY JAMES A. SULLIVAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—(UP)—It will be a bargain day at the football counter when Stanford and Washington, both unbeaten, meet Saturday in Stanford's big bowl in the game which should decide:

1. The Pacific Coast conference title.
2. The West's entry in the Rose Bowl classic.
3. A lot of arguments.

A bargain day is right for the fan need plunk down only $1.65 for the best seat in the house. For that sum he can see two gridiron titans battle for blood and glory, two eleven who have rode roughshod over all other conference opposition and have nicked a few scalps on the outside to boot.

It cost $2.50 and tax to see Stanford romp to victory in a dull game over the Southern California

STANFORD'S ALUSTIZA

Trojans, a team that hadn't won a game in a month. It will cost $4.40 for behind-the-goal-posts seats to see the same Stanford array meet a California eleven which has been in reverse since the opening of the season.

The laugh is on the graduate

By HARRY GRAYSON

Pleasing the customers is commendable, but henceforth it will take more than a one-touchdown lead to make a certain Wabash, Ind., independent football team chesty.

Appearing before the home folks, the Wabash club lost to a Deatur, Ind., array, 7-6, in the last 20 seconds, after a request that the game continue for 3 minutes overtime had been granted the Wabash outfit.

Wabash had led through the contest, and had five times within the Deatur 5-yard stripe, only to lose the ball. It had been a rather uneventful show for the spectators despite the Wabash threats, and because the Wabash aggression was near the goal, and to give the trade the added pleasure of witnessing another touchdown, the request for the extending of the time was made, and granted.

But before Wabash got its anticipated marker, a Deatur player scooped up a stray pass and ran 28 yards for a touchdown. The invaders made the extra point.

HITS, BUMPS, TWO ERRORS

You may recall the confusion growing out of Jack Beynon, of Illinois, throwing a pass into the arms of an Ohio State man in the end zone on third down. The Buckeyes immediately downed it—that is, the ball was brought out to the 20-yard mark. Many believed it should have been a safety, counting two points for the Illinois.

There perhaps was even more confusion and excitement during the Kansas-State game at Manhattan when a Kansas State man caught a pass about three yards from the goal line, was tackled and the ball flew over the goal line, landing in the arms of a Kansas athlete who was on his knees.

The Kansas player became ob-

FRICK ELECTED PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL LOOP

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Ford Frick, former sports writer, was elected president of the National League today, succeeding John Arnold Heydler.

Harvey Traub, for many years secretary and treasurer, Heydler formerly held all three offices. A new office, that of chairman of the board, was created, and Heydler was elected to this post "for life."

Heydler, like Frick, formerly was a sports reporter. Frick was brought to New York from Colorado by Arthur Brisbane, and was a sports writer for the New York American and New York Journal.

Frick is well known as a radio commentator on sports. For one year he has been manager of the National League service bureau, and made an outstanding success of that position, which is one chiefly of public relations. His election to the presidency was forecast as soon as Heydler resigned last week because of bad health.

While the figure was not made public it was believed the league presidency carries an annual salary of $30,000. Frick was elected to a four-year term.

Rockey Favorite Over Tuchi, Eastern Boxer

The Orange County Athletic club reaches into the fist grab-bag tonight, hoping to come up with another Bill Wana or Art Arroya.

Fred Tuchi, a young lightweight from Minneapolis, making his first start at a Southern California amateur arena, goes right into a main event at the highway punch-bowl. Sometimes this has proved a disastrous procedure, but Matchmaker "Bud" Rutledge is so sure of his ground that he is risking his new "prize" against one of the ablest 136-pounders in the A. A. U., Jack Rocky, of Long Beach.

Tuchi is conceded an outside chance to win. Rutledge says he will, and the matchmaker has seen the clever Minneapolis boy go in the gym. But Rocky has seldom suffered defeat here, and until the feat is actually accomplished Rocky will rule a favorite over almost anybody in his division among the simon-pures.

Promoter Sam Sampson and Rutledge frankly hope to make Tuchi a local card, but they are making Fred prove his worth. He certainly is getting no "touch" in the rough, tough and game Rocky.

The plan is to pair the winner with Art Arroya inside the month.

TUSTIN CHOICE DESPITE GROVE GRIDIRON JINX

Arroya currently being the club's No. 1 drawing card.

Paul Saucedo, who failed to make the grade as a main-eventer two weeks ago although Inspector Tom Cox of the A. A. U. had registered him as the best lightweight in Southern California, appears in the semi-final against Ray Oda, Long Beach Japanese.

Jo Venezy and Frank Barrago, a couple of giddy old blades who know a lot about the beak-busting business, square off for the special event at 147 pounds. Other bouts:

Art Anderson, Long Beach, vs. "Babe" Rosales, Placentia, 118 pounds;

Rudy Goldberg, Los Angeles Jewish A. C. vs. Norman Keup, Anaheim, 150 pounds;

Miller Fonseca, Wilmington, vs. Harry Lieberman, Jewish A. C., 135 pounds;

Eddie Martinez, Long Beach, vs. Jesse Sanchez, Westminster, 128 pounds;

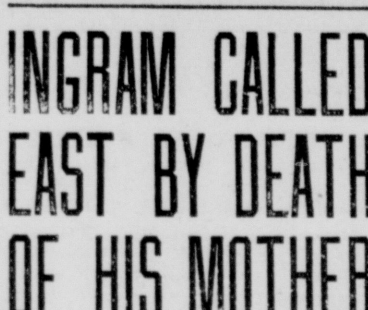

Tony Segobia, Long Beach, vs. Ike Silker, Westminster, 128 pounds;

Tim Alexander, Long Beach, vs. Jack Montrose, Jewish A. C., 130 pounds;

Jesse Sharkey, Long Beach, vs. Paul Brown, Santa Ana, 128 pounds.

BEARS SANS BOSS

California's Golden Bears must play Southern California Saturday without a coach. Bill Ingram, below, boss of the Bears, was called east today by the death of his mother. Assistant Coach "Stub" Allison will have charge of the squad in Los Angeles.

INGRAM CALLED EAST BY DEATH OF HIS MOTHER

BERKELEY, Nov. 8.—(UP)—"Navy Bill" Ingram, University of California football coach, will not be with the Golden Bear football squad which will leave for Los Angeles tonight for the annual game with University of Southern California.

Ingram entrained early today for Jeffersonville, Ind., upon receipt of word that his mother died last night following an extended illness.

Ingram was not expected to return to California by Saturday, when the Bears meet the Trojans, and the team was placed in charge of Leonard "Stub" Allison, assistant coach, during Ingram's absence.

FOOTE CHANGES LINEUP: SMITH IN AT QUARTER

After more than a month of football trouncing, Santa Ana's Saints finally play on familiar soil at Poly field tomorrow afternoon, and the "homecoming" will be a noteworthy one. Coach Bill Foote's organization goes to bat against Fullerton Hi, an old and, in earlier days, a bitter geographical rival.

All but the teams will be on friendly terms this time, however, as the student bodies are pledged to act like "little gentlemen" after the ball game. If Fullerton wins, as it should and doubtless will, there will be a rally, "with goalposts," and if Santa Ana wins there will be a similar demonstration, "without goalposts." But there will be no further misbehavior, according to a tacit agreement of the contesting schoolheads. The winning school will get sole possession of the field.

Santa Ana goes to the barrier with several surprise changes in its lineup. Ray Hamilton, who has labored with semi success as the team's No. 1 quarterback all year, goes back to center, the spot he played well all last season. Waldo Smith starts at quarterback, where he did a good job all through 1933.

Another unexpected assignment sends to fullback Byron Nott, one of the Saints' "forgotten men." A letterman who hasn't seen enough action to keep warm this year, Foote hopes the sight of a Fullerton Indian will snap the little line-plunger out of an inexplicable slump.

Foote has not decided whether to use Bill Hawkins, his best back, who was banged up a bit at Alhambra last Saturday. Hawkins is anxious to start but with the more important Long Beach bout just a week away, Foote may vote against risking his triple threat on non-conference competition.

If Hawkins has his way, he will be at left half, with Carroll Joy at right half. Otherwise, Joy moves to left half, and Ray Clark will start at right half.

Erwin Youel and Al Titensor will be on the ends, Bob Reid and Jim Crowther at tackle, Don Evans and Dick DeSmet at guards, with Hamilton in the middle of the line.

Fullerton, which has a much better record than Santa Ana despite a tendency to fumble at critical times that has cost Coach Don Cruikshank half-crazy, will come on with Oswald at quarter, Pershing Hodgson at left half, big John Raitt at right half, and LeRoy Clark at full. Raitt can kick a football 60 yards or better, and throw it even further, being the prep champion in this respect.

Fullerton's line will have Harry Maxwell and Howard Lauterborn at end, and John Mayfield and Capt. Felix Basabe at tackle. Bill Merriam and Connie Ridgeway at guard, and Lou Herbst at center.

The Reds licked Santa Ana, 9-6, at Fullerton last year, and square off a heavy favorite tomorrow. Only inspired play could bring the Saints a victory, according to those who have watched both squads in action. Game-time is 2:45, the arrival 40 cents.

BRUINS' BASKETBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—Physically larger and slightly more experienced than the squad which represented U. C. L. A. last year, fifteen basketball players are expected to report to Coach Pierce (Caddy) Works tonight when the Bruins begin fall training.

Bill Maxwell, regular guard in 1932 and 1933, will return for his senior year after being out last year, partially injured, this gain will be partially offset by Duke Trotter's decision to stay off the court this season.

The squad will be led by Captain Gordon Gibson, regular center, for the past two seasons. Other pivot men are John Ball and Morris Caldwell, both six-foot sophomores. Ball is expected to press Gibson closely for first string honors.

Returning veterans for forward berths include Bill Reitz, Shelby Johns, Ralph McFadden and Glen Melancon, juniors, the first two being expected to hold down first string berths. Support will come from John Appleby, former Venice Hi school star who did not play as a freshman last year, and John Gottlieb, all-junior college conference forward from Santa Monica.

Leading candidates for guard berths include only one sophomore—Kenneth Lueke. Don Ash-spangler (8), a freshman, will be last half of last season. Other guards include Horace Height, John Wells and Alex Wildrick.

The Bruins will play the shortest practice schedule in a number of years, the first game being scheduled for Dec. 15 when the squad begins at Fresno State a week's trip into Northern California. The conference season will open here Jan. 11.

WILLIOWICK TO HOLD BEST-BALL TOURNNEY

With qualifying rounds commencing Saturday, the Willowick golf course will hold a "best ball of pointers" tournament in the near future. Golfers are urged to select their partners and enter the qualifying rounds from November 10 to 19 in order to be drawn for tournament play the following week.

Mrs. Charles Chapman, with a ow gross of 98, and Mrs. Clara Hoover, with a low net of 101-27-74, featured a Lady's Day tournament held at Willowick yesterday.

"THEY CAN BE HAD" IS FULLERTON YELL

By WILLIE Q. PRYOR
FULLERTON, Nov. 8.—"They can be had."

Yes, sir, that's the fighting spirit of the Fullerton Indians who are out to scalp Santa Ana in tomorrow's Orange county grid feature.

It isn't that the Indians are coming to Santa Ana with a chip on their shoulder. But they are going out on the field to play a hard, bruising game in an effort to run up a one-sided tally—tiger.

Fullerton stands a good chance of winning. But so does Santa Ana, even though they may be outplayed two to one. The Fullerton boys are much too courteous to try to run up a one-sided tally; they'd rather fumble to their adversaries advantage. They have all season and will likely do so again tomorrow.

For Coach Don Cruikshank it is heart breaking. He has spent considerable time drilling his youngsters just how to hang on to the elusive pigskin, but to no avail. They're bound to fumble him grey-headed. He is doubtful whether his Indians will come through for him even against their traditional rivals, who already have lost five games this year.

DONS MAINTAIN STRONG RECORD IN CONFERENCE

Santa Ana jaycee's title-bound Dons will be after more than just a victory over San Bernardino's Braves in a league game at the Bowl tomorrow night. Coach Bill Cook's champions will be striving to protect the best all-around record in the Eastern conference.

Riverside's Bengals, always a powerful offensive delegation, are tied with the Dons in point-making, but their defense has been inferior. Citrus has a great defensive club, and ranks slightly ahead of Santa Ana's stubborn forwards, but the Owls must score 12 points against Fullerton Saturday to equal the Don record on offense.

Santa Ana has annexed 39 points in four games and allowed 17. Citrus has scored 27 in three contests and allowed 6. Riverside has earned 39 in four, but has given 40. San Bernardino has scored 26 in three, and allowed 32. Chaffey has annexed 29 in three, and given 20. Pomona has not made a touchdown, although earned three points on a field goal against Santa Ana. The Cossacks have allowed 53 points.

In the fifth round of conference play this week every game will be held on a different day. Santa Ana and San Bernardino clash here tomorrow night. Citrus and Fullerton do not meet until Saturday afternoon at Fullerton, while Chaffey and Pomona have saved their annual battle for an Armistice Day celebration Monday.

CITRUS, FULLERTON TO CLASH SATURDAY

FULLERTON, Nov. 8.—Art Nunn's Fullerton Yellowjackets tangle with the league leading Citrus Owls in an Eastern jaycee conference clash here Saturday afternoon rather than a nocturnal engagement as originally booked.

Citrus has a chance for the conference title, being the lone undefeated team, and does not wish to hamper its chances by switching to the nocturnal brand of the collegiate pastime for the elation of the jacket fans.

Coach Nunn has been working diligently this week, attempting to polish off numerous rough spots in the Yellowjacket running attack.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Maxie Baer, world heavyweight boxing champion, will embark on a barnstorming tour of the midwest after his younger brother "Buddy" Baer, makes his local debut against Gene Garner next week, the titlist announced today.

A series of 4-round exhibition bouts will take him to Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago and Cleveland.

Baer's latest motion picture, which was to have gone into production last week, has been delayed 60 days, giving the champion that much free time before he must return to Hollywood.

"We have to go out mornings and beg them to run," Kyne said in explaining that with 1200 horses on the ground there should be at least 10 thoroughbreds competing in every event.

First Successful Cotton Picker, Inventors Claim

Inventors have tried and failed for nearly a century to perfect a mechanical cotton picker, but John and Mack Rust, of Lake Providence, La., declare that the machine shown here in a Blytheville, Ark., field, is the answer to the search. It will pick an acre of cotton an hour, doing the work of 100 laborers, say the brothers. A rapidly rotating smooth steel spindle, moistened as it enters the boll, twists out the cotton without use of hooks or claws and leaves it undamaged, assert the inventors.

Wiley Harris, program; W. Frank Harris, music; Mrs. Frank Harris, Clara McCord, Georgia Mills, Adelaide Robertson, decorating; Albert Schreff, police and chamber of commerce; R. P. Mitchell, speaker; Henry Campbell, Clara McCord, Manza Patton, Lillian Harris, Agnes Collum, Wiley Harris, E. R. Adelman, Mrs. Henry Campbell and Mrs. Conway, reception.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

English writers have a large following among American readers. One of the best liked is J. B. Priestley, for did he not give us Jess Oakroyd and Inigo in "The Good Companions" and a host of interesting characters in "Faraway"? The people he meets while preparing his new book "English Journey" are as varied and interesting as those met in the itinerary of "The Good Companion."

"English Journey" is an account of a trip made in August 1933. It starts in London, goes to Southampton, north to the Tyne, and south again to London. It is in no sense a guide-book, but it might be described as a sociological travel book. Priestley's idea was to see as many of the different English industrial towns and to talk to as many of the people as possible. The various phases of mass production were observed by him. He describes the Goose Fair at Nottingham, the unspoiled Cotswold region, the terrible Snotton "tip," and the entrancing dale country in his own West Riding. He talked to tramps, heads of great businesses, an old Cotswold mason, a ruined multimillionaire and many unemployed men.

From his observation he draws some thought-provoking conclusions about the English he saw. These he says are three. There is the Old England of cathedrals and manor houses; there is the nineteenth century industrial England; and finally, the post-war England of mass production and standardization. His comments of present day England not only help us to understand this country better, but are very sane criticism of modern civilization in general.

Cecil Roberts is another English author who has made an appeal to American readers. His "Scissors" and "Pamela's Spring Song" have delighted many of us by their vitality and humor. He presents himself in a different vein in his new book "Gone Rustic."

But for the remark of a superb old lady in Florida and a puncture while motoring in Oxford, this book would never have been written. Events did not conspire, however, so that Mr. Roberts discovered and purchased an Elizabethan cottage. After that he "went rustic" with exciting and delightful results.

This is the story of the cottage, how it was found, and how it was renovated. It tells how a man who works in a garden learns a lot at the expense of a backache. It is natural that a cottage built in the time of Elizabeth, past whose garden many historic figures rode, should have considerable history. Trails led Mr. Roberts into many cottages, to the chimney where Dick Turpin hid, and to the fireside of the old village blacksmith. This is all a background to the personal adventure among birds and bulbs, in a valley of the lovely Chilterns.

This book weaves an enchantment that should awaken a love of the countryside and its wonders and should send some of its readers on explorations of their own.

Another England from that of entrancing countryside is presented by Philip Allingham in "Cheapjack." This is the England which Priestley shows us through Joby Jackson in "The Good Companions" and by his descriptions of the Nottingham Fair in "English Journey."

Gentlemen everywhere have faced hard times. It is one gentleman in a million, however, who can dive into the sea of humanity and come up with a smile and a story like "Cheapjack." This is the true and astonishing biography of an aristocrat turned mountebank. In England a "Cheapjack" is a fellow who lives by his wits and how this one did live.

Armed with a top hat and a dress suit the author lived the life of the most thrilling picaresque adventure. He records for us the life of the "crookes," "tick-offs," "gazers," "pitchers," "Whizz-mobs," "graffers" and "yocks" in the fairs of England. He became a master hand at taking your money in exchange for illusion and making you like it.

Colorful, reckless, devil-may-care, it is full of a rich jargon that makes American slang seem pale. This utterly English background with its rhyming slang of carnival life will appeal with great force to American readers.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 8.—(UP)—Automobile operators' licenses will carry the owners' photographs and fingerprints if a movement sponsored by state officials is approved by the 1935 legislature.

The plan, forwarded as the most positive method of reducing crime, lowering the number of traffic accidents and providing means of absolute identification, already is authorized under the law, but additional authority and the necessary finances will be asked of the legislature, according to John A. McMillan, attorney for the state motor vehicle department.

E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California highway patrol, is one of the officials favoring the plan.

"I believe the people of California will realize what an enormous safety feature fingerprinting would be," he said. "It would eliminate many of the evils which hide behind false registration of drivers and owners of cars, and it would provide positive identification in case of accidents."

The measure, as proposed by the legislative committee of the California Peace Officers' association, also would require the fingerprinting of non-residents entering the state.

The plan, others pointed out, would also assist in solving situations similar to the illegal registration mix-up reported in various localities throughout the state this year.

In the event the legislature approved, the plan would be made effective at once.

The new Mrs. Thornberg is a graduate of Tustin Union High school.

AN APPRECIATION TO THE REGISTER AND MR. J. F. BURKE
The commendation due to a service rendered on behalf of public welfare belongs, we believe, to Mr. J. F. Burke and The Santa Ana Register, for published advice to the people of Orange county against passage of Amendments 9 and 17 on last Tuesday's ballot.
These two proposals would have wrought immeasurable damage to this state and its people. We feel, therefore, that appreciation should be publicly expressed for the editorial perception, fairness and courage that assisted so materially in the defeat of these amendments by an informed electorate.

Girl Scout Troop Has Prominence on Woman's Club Program

This week's meeting of Santa Ana Woman's club in Veterans' hall was made doubly interesting by a Girl Scout program planned under direction of Mrs. R. C. Harris, and by reports from two recent federation conclaves as Mrs. R. G. Carman, president, called upon various delegates for their impressions of the events, a county convention and a Southern district affair.

Mrs. Harris, presented as program chairman, talked briefly upon Girl Scout work by troops of which the club is sponsor. She introduced Miss Mildred Kemper who, with members of Girl Scout patrols, proffered a sketch of their work and activities. Miss Kemper is lieutenant of the patrol under Miss Marian Parsons, and with her Girl Scouts, gave a very fine program which included demonstrations of summer camp activities and ended with a pretty pageant.

Details of program, social affairs and other activities of clubwomen as exemplified in his county board meeting of October 25 in Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse, and in the Southern District federation convention at Lake Arrowhead from October 20 to November 1, formed the remainder of the program.

Mrs. Jacob Bohlander, Mrs. W. M. Wells, Mrs. James McCracken and Mrs. E. M. Waycott were among the delegates giving clear and spirited reports of activities, and social speakers and social programs. Several members of the Woman's club had participated in entertainment features very successfully, and this added interest to the accounts.

REPORTERS saw that report. They waited in the hotel lobby until the clerk at the desk asked them to step into a smaller, adjoining room. It was almost an hour before McNeal came down stairs.

They gathered around him, asking questions.

"Yes, he was strangled," he told them. "We found it was done with a man's silk scarf, black and white. It was dropped on the floor beside her. She was sitting in a chair facing the window."

"Who found her?" Gai asked.

"Her brother."

"What time was that?"

"Just before the call reached headquarters. A little after five o'clock. The brother claims he went out for a walk about three o'clock. When he left, his sister was writing a letter. The desk stenographer said she might have been using it but there wasn't any letter in sight. Hollister claims he came back a little after five o'clock and went upstairs. He saw his sister lying back in her chair and thought at first she was sick. Then he realized what had happened and ran down to get the clerk. That's his story, anyhow."

"Did anyone in the building hear anything?"

"The woman who lives across the hall," McNeal told them, "said she thought she heard someone talking to Miss Hollister about four o'clock. She didn't understand anything that was said or recognize the other voice. Couldn't say whether it was a man's or a woman's. Aside from that, nobody heard anything."

"Is there any way to get into the department except the regular entrance?" Bannister asked.

"There's a service door but it was bolted."

"Anything missing from the apartment?"

McNeal shook his head. "I don't think so," he said. "We had a hard time getting anything out of Hollister but he said the only money in the place would be in his sister's purse. We looked and there were a couple of five-dollar bills and some change. He told us she kept her jewelry in a case in her bureau. We found the case all right and Hollister said it was there—some old-fashioned rings and trinkets. One of the pins had a good-sized diamond in it—or it looked to me like a diamond. Anyhow none of the stuff had been touched, apparently."

"Any signs of a struggle?"

"None," he said.

Again McNeal shook his head. "The room—she was in the living room—looked just as it did the other night when I was there. Nothing out of place. Whoever did it came in without her seeing him or else was someone she had no reason to suspect. He must have stepped up behind her."

"Are you sure she was killed in the chair where you found her?" Bannister asked.

"No, I'm not sure of it but it looks reasonable. She was sitting facing the window and away from the door. Anyone who had a key could have come in and slipped up behind her."

"But who else has a key?"

"No one but her brother, so far as I've been able to find out."

Bannister thought of Mathew Hollister with his mild, spectacled blue eyes.

"How about that scarf you mentioned?" Fleming asked.

"Think you'll be able to trace it?"

"We're going to try."

"Where is it?" Gai asked.

"How we see it?"

"Yes. It's upstairs."

"How about going up there now?"

"You can go," McNeal told them, "but you won't find anything more than I've told you." He hesitated. "If I wait a minute, I'll see the manager first."

McNeal "minute" lengthened into five and still he did not reappear.

"I'll bet the manager's plenty excited," Fleming volunteered.

Two murders in two weeks in this place!

"He probably isn't any too pleased about it," Gai agreed. "I heard today that five families have moved out of here lately. There'll be more leaving now."

"And five tenants in these times mean money."

"Five tenants mean money in any times," Gai corrected him.

"They saw McNeal then, coming toward them, and the reporters got to their feet. They rode to the second floor in the elevator and followed the detective captain down a corridor. An officer in uniform stood before a door ahead. He stepped aside for them to enter the apartment."

The living room, as McNeal had said, looked exactly as it had the night he and Bannister had paid the Hollisters a visit. Bannister stood just inside the door, glancing around him, when another door opened.

Mathew Hollister stood on the threshold. He seemed to recognize McNeal as the person in charge of the hurried forward. His voice rose hysterically. "I've got to have protection!" he cried. "I won't stay here, I tell you. The police have got to protect me!"

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and weak and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It sits there in the bowels, growing into your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. You feel aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and down." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for CARTER'S LIVER PILLS on the red label. Remember a substitute. Beware of cheap imitations.

MORRILL HITS COMMUNISM IN LIONS ADDRESS

ORANGE, Nov. 8.—Declaring that "people of patriotic America and especially California must firmly, decisively and without delay decide whether or not they want Communism and the Soviet flag to replace the Stars and Stripes," Clarence S. Morrill, chief of the state division of criminal identification, addressed the members of the Lions club Wednesday noon. He was introduced by Herman Zabel, head of the county bureau of identification.

"The Communist party of the United States of America is a branch of the Third International of Russia with the United States headquarters located in New York City," Morrill said. "The United States is divided into 20 districts, California, Oregon and Nevada comprise the 13th district. Within this district there are 108 subsidiary organizations that are directed and under the control of the Communist party. Each district is divided into sections, sub-sections, units, block units and cells."

"Among the teachings of the party are the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States, a hatred of God and all form of religion, the destruction of the ideals of home and family life, the confiscation of all private property, class consciousness and class hatred, social equality and intermarriage between all races, control and destruction of the American Federation of Labor by boring from within, destruction of the public school system and the substitution thereof of the Communist idea of education. It teaches and advocates military and general disobedience in the army and navy. The proof of these statements is to be found in the official Communist documents."

TAX COLLECTION CHANGE IS URGED AT COUNCIL SESSION; TWO CITY OFFICES COMBINED
ORANGE, Nov. 8.—Discussion of a proposed change in the assessment and collection of city taxes, appointment of W. J. Richardson as city street superintendent, combining the office with that of his present one as water superintendent at the same salary, that of $175 a month, and the appointment of Frank Dale as building inspector alone, relieving him of the office of street superintendent, featured the city council session last night.

Dale's salary as street superintendent and building inspector combined, set at a previous meeting at $150, was placed at $140 for building inspector alone. It was brought out that Dale would be needed for constant supervision of the fire hall soon to be erected on South Olive street and that a combination of the offices as street and water departments would be advantageous in many ways as equipment of the separate departments could be used in both.

The proposed change in tax collections and assessments taxes was suggested by Councilman Lester, who brought an array of figures to substantiate his claims that a saving would be made the city in turn-over over assessing and collecting taxes to the county.

Lester stated that the cost to the city of Orange for work on taxes, including clerical work and supplies, totaled $1701.73 this year. The cost to the city had the work been done by the county on the present tax roll would have been $474, he declared. The county, Lester stated, charges one per cent of the first $25,000 collected and one fourth of one percent on the rest of the collections.

The matter of the proposed change was referred to the finance committee. E. M. Chapman and J. E. Riley, by Mayor C. J. Hassel and if approved by them the city attorney will be instructed to draw up an ordinance, which would come up for first reading at a meeting to be held at 1:30 p. m., November 21. In this case final reading of the ordinance would be made on November 27 at 1 p. m.

Drainage problems came under consideration when a number of residents appeared before the council to outline damage caused by the recent heavy rain. William Burt appeared in behalf of the Great Western Cuydage company and asked that water in the vicinity of the plant on Palm avenue be diverted. Burt stated that the water could be taken under the tracks of the Santa Fe railway. He declared during the recent heavy rains, the whole lower floor of the plant had been flooded, making it necessary to move 200,000 pounds of products. A survey of the drainage situation with a view of making adequate provision for storm waters, will be made, according to action taken.

The city authorized the purchase of a fireproof filing cabinet for city records for the use of the city attorney, for a drinking fountain for the plaza for $125 and for a pump capable of handling 7500 gallons of water an hour with one half-gallon of gasoline as power at cost of $185. The pump will be used to pump out flooded basements.

"To stuff, like you, I'd be ashamed, but maybe you should not be blamed. The mystic man made you grow big, so p'haps it is all right."

Then Windy cried, "Gee, why wait here? He'll sit and stuff for hours, I fear. Let's look around the castle. He can join us after while."

"I'll bet that there are things in store that we have never seen before," "Of course there are," replied ol' Happy Helper, with a smile.

"Now, first of all we'll go into my music room, where all of you can sing a little song. On my piano I will play."

"Your voices I would like to hear," Woe Scouty said, "I'll stay right here and keep my eye on Duncy." Then the bunch went on their way.

WHAT SHALL WE USE for MONEY?

Well, How About Razor Blades?

It seems that "sound money" was an issue back even in early New England, when somebody started debasing the wampum ---which brings to mind some of the funny things that have passed for coin of the realm

Early New England laws provided severe penalties for the racketeering counterfeiters who made wampum out of inferior kinds of shell.

By Dr. Frank Thone

"YEAH. But what shall we use for money?" This defeatist wisecrack has greeted many a hopeful suggestion made during the last couple of years. Desirable projects, individual or community, have had to be shelved because of lack of currency, in the pocket or in the town treasury.

Answers have been slow in coming, hesitant and experimental. Individuals have resorted to barter. The country now resounds with debate over proposals to use pieces of white metal as well as pieces of yellow, oblongs of paper as well as disks of gold and silver.

But in the end we'll have money again. Some kind of money. And we'll get used to it, and buy and sell with it, no matter what it's made of. And the next time a monetary revolution comes along we'll get just as excited as we are now, and call each other names, according to the monetary faith that is in us.

For money is one of the most nearly universal of all human institutions. It was in use at the dawn of history, and without much question had been invented in prehistoric time. There is hardly a people, however primitive, that does not have its accepted medium of exchange—its own kind of money.

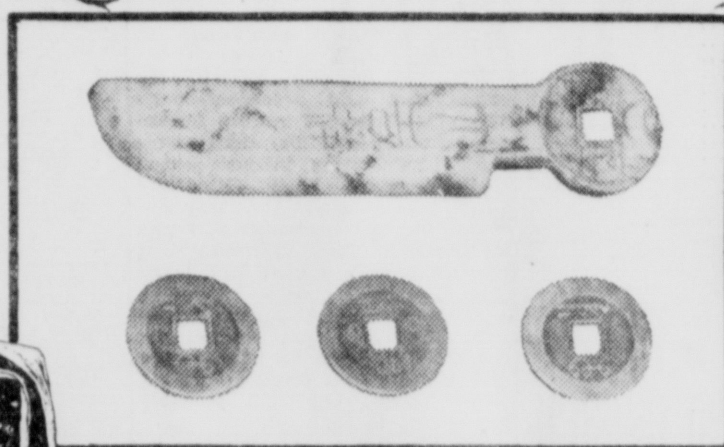

Wonderfully diverse are the moneys of the world, and interesting the stories of their evolution. Would you ever suppose, for example, that the familiar brass Chinese "cash"—those very cheap coins with a square hole in the middle—started out in life some thousands of years ago as iron knives? Or that the Chinese also had, at one period in their history, a "shirt money"? Or that the biggest "coins"—enormous cartwheels of stone—are to be found on one of the smallest of inhabited islands?

THESE are only a few examples of the bewildering array of monetary varieties—species of specie—that have been turned up in a recent study by ethnologists at the Smithsonian Institution. They have made up a case-full of some of the more typical and curious kinds of money, for exhibition at the Century of Progress in Chicago.

What shall we use for money? Well, razor blades, woodpecker scalps, porcupine quills, shells, beads, salt, tobacco, eagle feathers, fish hooks, blankets, measures of corn—the list is almost endless.

All these things have been used in America at one time or another for money. Each item had a value, fixed and recognized among the people that used it, and that is what gave it its status as money rather than as simple merchandise.

Most of the moneys used by the more nearly primitive peoples, like our North American

Two end-products in the evolution of Chinese "knife money." . . . At the top, a costly jade replica of the original knife; below, the cheap brass "cash" which developed through another line of descent.

The primitive tendency to use ornaments for money is reversed in the Near East, where money is used as ornaments. . . . This Kurdish woman wears a small fortune in gold coins.

Indians, are still recognizable as directly usable articles. You could trade with your fish-hooks or go fishing with them. You could buy things with your tobacco or smoke it. You could ride your ponies or hand over several of them for a squaw.

Although the monetary objects used by any given tribe had a stable trade value, they still had an intrinsic or utilitarian value. That is the most elementary kind of money—a commodity useful in itself, to which a trade-ratio more or less fixed, has been attached.

OUR Indians never got away from this naive currency system. They never developed a token coinage, or any kind of circulating medium that was the symbol of value rather than the recognized value itself. The nearest they came to this was the use of objects of ceremonial rather than utilitarian value.

Wampum, for example, was "money" only so long as it passed from hand to hand in simple strings. The standard trade-unit of wampum was a bunch of 30 strings. These were often knotted into sub-units, like links of sausage, so that a bunch of wampum could be cut apart, for "change."

But once these little shell beads were unstrung from their trade-bundles and re-strung as belt, or some other ornament or article of clothing, they assumed a ceremonial value so far above that of ordinary wampum that it would have been a profanation to return them to the channels of mere business. It would have been like melting down the gold and silver altar vessels to turn them into coins.

Another case of much the same kind was the high value set on eagle feathers by very many North American tribes. Eagle feathers were money, not because of any intrinsic usefulness, but because they had the supernatural or magic virtues of making their possessors fierce and fearless in battle, swift and skilled in the hunt.

So precious were they that in the southwest each tribe jealously guarded its own special area where eagles were known to nest, just as modern nations might be ready to fight for the possession of gold or silver mining areas.

There is just one possible example of token or symbolic money in Indian use, and significant enough, it was in use among the most highly cultured and farthest advanced of Indian tribes.

In the southern part of Mexico, and particularly in the great cultural center of Mitla, there have been found great numbers of copper objects shaped more or less like ax-heads. They are well and skillfully wrought, but too thin for any utilitarian purpose. It is thought possible (though not at all established as certain) that these copper blades represent the sturdier and actually usable ax-heads of both stone and copper that did pass current as money among many Indian tribes in both North and South America.

A much more complete and definite evolution of a symbol-coinage is that of the ancient Chinese "razor money" or "knife money" into the modern square-holed brass "cash," now so cheap and debased in Chinese cities that it takes a hatful of them to buy a square meal. Originally the "knife money" consisted of real knives or razors of sharp-edged iron. The blade had a characteristic shape, and there was a disk-shaped expansion at its lower end, pierced to take a carrying-string. At this earliest stage, the knife was both a unit of exchange and an article of practical use, just as schoolboy pocket-knives still are.

Then, because the edges of this knife money were too dangerous when they were sharp, the blades were turned out dull, though still of iron. The next step was to substitute bronze or brass for the iron. The knife was hardly a knife any longer: it was a real coin, valuable but not intrinsically useful.

OTHER materials were substituted for the archaic iron—even the precious jade. The blade became smaller and smaller, finally disappeared altogether. But the disk-shaped handle remained, its hole now standardized in a square shape. The knife coin had become a "cash!"

And to complete the ironic cycle, modern Chinese now string these "cash" together into the shape of a conventional cross-hilted sword.

said to be potent in keeping demons away from the lucky possessor.

Another Chinese instance was the development of a shirt into a token, good for one shirt. Perhaps the origin of "no tuckee no shitee"? And the luckless Chinese who got caught short in the market and "lost his shirt" suffered a literal as well as a symbolic catastrophe!

CHINA was not the only place where knives were money. These implements have been currency all over the world. It is perhaps regrettable, from the professional jokesmith's point of view, that razors were not money in Africa, but they weren't. However, knives were so standard as money there that a symbol or token knife currency was developed: the "knife" consisted of a long, almost wire-like "tang" with a very short, flat, almost disc-like blade at the top.

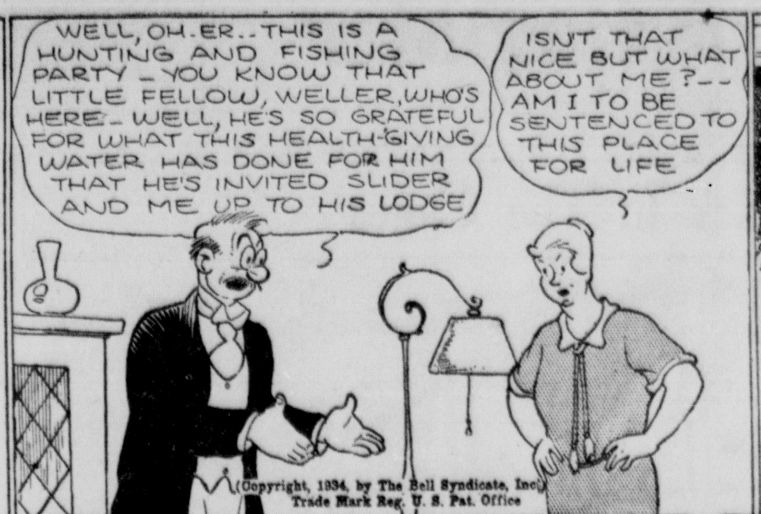

Perhaps the most widely used, yet most variable, of all primitive currencies was shell money. Wampum consisted of small disk-shaped or short-cylindrical beads, cut from one particular kind of clamshell, now known scientifically as Venus mercenaria. The Venus part of the name presumably refers to the clam's being born of the sea, as the lovely pagan goddess was. The mercenaria part looks as though it might be a reference to the use of the shell for making bead money.

At any rate, the beads cut from the white part of the shell were more numerous than those cut from its purple or black border, so that they were not rated as highly, either by the Indians or by the settlers of Massachusetts Bay Colony, who adopted Indian money as they adopted Indian corn as a food—and took the Indians' land to raise it on.

There was even monetary legislation in early New England, fixing the value of wampum and providing penalties against the racketeering counterfeiters who had the audacity to manufacture wampum out of inferior kinds of shell, or even out of pottery, bone and wood.

For at so early a date as this, "sound money" was an agitated issue!

THE ELECTION AS A GUIDE TO THE FUTURE

A battle of ballots never settles any fundamental issues any more than a battle of bullets settles fundamental issues.

On the battlefields of the Civil war, contestants fought and destroyed each other because of a different interpretation placed upon the constitution and a different attitude of mind in respect to the ownership of men as chattels.

After the Civil war was over, this difference in attitude of mind still prevailed. It came up in almost every state, in the discussion of its attitude upon federal legislation, on the question of the constitutionality of legislation, which seemed to further encroach upon state rights. The fact that the attitude of mind is still different upon the Negro is shown by "Jim Crow" laws, discrimination in voting and the number of lynchings of black people over white people.

So it is with the battle that took place on Tuesday. The vote in the country is completely indicative of a state of mind of millions of people. The opinions of people are in a constant state of flux.

The world looks bright or it looks gloomy as breakfast and lunch and dinner and rent are certain. These change with people from day to day.

What general was it who said, "an army travels on its stomach"? Certainly millions of people think with their stomachs, or, may we say, they think in respect to material outcome? The man who has, votes in the way he believes will protect what he has. The man who hasn't anything votes the way he believes will better his circumstances. Each may be profoundly mistaken in the method, but the mere fact that there are more of one than there are of another on a given day does not make either side right.

The millions which have been poured into Iowa from the government, in the form of various kinds of relief, may cause Iowa to support the administration but it does not make the administration correct in its attitude or the Iowans wise in their conclusions.

Contentment with conditions as they are is due to being remembered at feeding time. If we would preserve the institutions that we cherish and we understand and in which we are operating, we certainly must see to it that the majority of the people are not forgotten.

You may defeat men. You may bury them politically. But ideas, if true, can neither be killed or buried, and anguish, unassuaged, if it touches increasing numbers, will cause extreme things to be done.

We are living in the most fortunate place in all our country. Prosperity beams upon a substantial majority of the people in Orange county. We are fortunate in this. This makes us conservative.

To be sure, there are some who are not fortunate in our midst, but they are in the minority. And minorities in election are unimportant, as we do not have minority representation in legislation.

But we should learn lessons from the election. Henry Ford probably said more than he fully realized at the moment, when he said: "Private industry must absorb the unemployed." This industry must do, and whether it is through high wages or low wages, men and women who desire employment should be provided with that employment.

The great leaders of our industrial and economic life have now, under the law, an opportunity to take matters in their own hands and establish a program in harmony with the ownership of production and distribution in the hands of private parties, as it is today, so that at least there will not be an increase in the army of discontent. There must be a surcease and a gradual absorption.

The likelihood is that congress will be much more radical than the president, backed by the vote which was received. Many of the ones who have been criticizing the president will have to sustain him and the best way to sustain him is to plan on a better and more sane way out than will be proposed by the extremist anywhere.

LOCAL OPTION PROVISION DEFEATED BY PEOPLE

If we can believe that the people expressed their honest attitude in the vote on the measures affecting the liquor traffic, the only conclusion that one can reach is that the people are willing to let the traffic run to the furthest limit without let or hindrance.

Not only did they vote for a measure that will practically give an opportunity to every hot-dog stand to sell gin and whiskey, but apparently fearing that the people, through a local option vote, might protect certain localities, the citizens voted by an overwhelming majority to keep themselves from holding a local option election.

There is no doubt, in our own mind, that here in Orange county there were many people who were deceived in the last few hours over the meaning of a vote "No" and "Yes" on number 13 and probably also on number 2. On the day preceding election, a large ad appeared in The Register and we believe every other daily paper in the county. We know the same ad appeared in Los Angeles papers. It was calculated to deceive the very elect. It was headed "Out Speakeasies and Bootleggers" and it was signed by some law enforcement league, with the names of women credited with being leaders in the W. C. T. U. and the Loyal Temperance Legion.

We did not see this advertisement before it was published. The policy of The Register is that on matters pertaining to the adoption or rejection of legislation, the advertising columns are open equally to all people in urging the adoption or rejection of such legislation. We have never taken an advertisement or received a dollar to increase the sale of intoxicating liquor, but in our democracy we have felt that the voters should have the right to have all the information and arguments on behalf and against any legislation that is proposed to aid in the solution of any problem.

In following out this rule our advertising department accepted the advertisement, and it was not run until the night before election. Headed as it was, signed as it was, unquestionably many people were deceived thereby.

If we had seen it, we would have kept it out, not because it was an argument against number 13 and for number 2, but because it was a false and misleading argument that appeared to put the Loyal Temperance Legion and the Women's Christian Temperance Union for number 2 and against number 13.

We are in that stage of political activity where there is such constant practice, by those who would exploit human weakness, that we can say of them, as Robert Pollok wrote in "The Course of Time": "He was a man who stole the livery of the court of Heaven to serve the Devil in."

The Register itself, on the same night, published the numbers of all the amendments with crosses "Yes" or "No" advising how to vote. The attitude of The Register upon this question is well-known and we know there were many, many people who clipped this portion of The Register and used it in the voting booth.

We are rather inclined to believe that today the majority of people and even those whom we designate as "church" people, are so engrossed with their economic problems that they look at measures and men through that kind of glasses rather than with the crystal-clear gaze of public interest.

THE INCREASE OF DRUNKENNESS

One cannot visit the large cities of the country anywhere from coast to coast without marking the drunkenness that is increasingly manifest. The old demoralizing saloon has not yet appeared in many places; but the access to liquor in restaurants and hotels, and the sale of it to be consumed off the premises, has not been without its inevitable consequences of the reeling men and women on the streets.

The theater district of New York at night is thick with these reeling figures, both men and women. And they are not of the lower classes only, but well-dressed young men and women of evident refinement.

It is not difficult to anticipate a new movement to curb the natural consequences of the legal dispensing of liquors. Anything so destructive in its social consequences will not be tolerated by the people of the country. Just what form the new regulations will assume is too early to predict.

But with the growing abuse of liquor consumption, some measures will be devised to combat it. We have not yet reached the final solution of the age-old social menace. Repeal has again lifted the problem to public attention; and the same causes which led to the adoption of the Eighteenth amendment will again call for a radical attack upon it by the forces of sobriety.

Something has been gained from the decade or more of national prohibition. But it is very apparent that with the return of the legalized traffic these gains will soon be lost unless the forces of sobriety get busy to stay the growing demoralization of the traffic.

MR. UNTERMAYER HONORED BY FASCIST GOVERNMENT

Louis Untermeyer's book of Italian folk stories for children, "The Donkey of God" has been awarded the 10,000 lire prize awarded in Italy to the best literary work on the beauties of Italy.

We wouldn't question that the book deserved the prize. Nevertheless it is not without significance that in an article, by a special investigator, in one of the current weeklies, on Fascism at Columbia University, the writer says: "... while German Nazi propaganda has been for the most part clumsy and obvious, Italian fascist propaganda has been subtle and elaborate. At least Mr. Untermeyer's book must have been a splendid opportunity for the Italian government to make a gesture of friendliness to an American.

A Very Dirty Business

Rochester (N. Y.) Times-Union

It is not always a blessing that time dulls the edge of bitter memory. A dozen years ago, the recent sensational investigation of the munitions industry would have stomped up the steps and rapped at the doors of our homes, for we had all been in a war.

Today, these wicked deals in mass murder and the fomenting of strife between uncounted millions of human beings may seem a little remote, because our last war has receded somewhat in our memories.

But war is not remote. These recurrent arrangements for men to kill each other and the means for wholesale destruction concern us all. War is now too devastating to be remote. These makers of war are dealing in our lives and those of our brothers.

It was Lord Haldane who said: "In the late war, the most rabid patriots were to be found well behind the front line. In the next war, no one will be behind the front line. It will be brought home to all whom it may concern that war is a very dirty business."

Back In The Cages

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

OUT OF THE PAST

His cart was heavy-laden
With many lovely things;
All sorts of wares—
Old broken chairs
And ancient, rusty springs;
Great heaps of papers, years behind
The current tide of news,
And battered toys
That little boys
Would still be glad to use.

We heard his tin bell jingling
Far down the village street.
With youthful pride
We loved to ride
Beside him in his seat,
And count the stores of treasure-trove
He'd picked up here and there
While to and fro
He used to go
Along the thoroughfare.

Today we never see him
Nor any of his kind;
The tide of trade,
I'm much afraid,
Has left him far behind.
But still I well remember him
And still hold in my heart
The days when we Rejoiced to see
The junkman and his cart.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

A NEW DEAL IN UNION LABOR

For more than a half-century the American movement of organized labor has clung to the craft-union form of organization. A single industry has been made a crazy-quilt of craft organizations. Management has had to deal with its man power on a variety of fronts.

Events have long been writing an indictment of the craft-union form of organization as obsolete and out of step with contemporary industrial processes.

The whole problem of labor relations would be vastly simplified if all American labor were organized in industrial or vertical unions. As the major fields of industry go, in the matter of labor content or discontent, so all economic America goes.

If labor in each of the major industries were organized in a single industrial union for each, large policies could be hammered out by a National Labor Relations Board, instead of frittering away its and the government's energies in the settlement of a hundred and one little guerrilla warfare waged by this or that craft. I am glad that the American Federation of Labor has at last made a start in the direction of industrial unions.

The step it has taken is short. It makes no sweeping transformation of organized labor. But it is a step. And the American Federation of Labor has the right to ask patience from its critics while it threads its way cautiously towards a more modernized basis for organized labor.

The one thing the country has the right to ask of the Federation leaders is that they do not sabotage the move towards industrial unions with behind the scenes manipulations.

BORROWING

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: When you want to use something you haven't got think twice before borrowing it and then try to find something you have that you can make do. Borrowing your neighbor's things, save in grave emergency such as rarely comes to children, shows a weakness on your part. Often a little forethought would have prevented your needing the thing. You could have had your own mended, or you could have bought it and had it on hand for use. Or you could have found something to use in its place. Intelligence can create ways. Instead of using your intelligence you take a short cut and borrow, thereby stunting your growth and giving yourself a bad name, for nobody loves a borrower.

Consider what happens in school. You go to the drawing class without a ruler and eraser although you know you need them. You had both when the term started. You left them somewhere, somebody took them; you left them home in your other bag—anyway there you are without your tools. You help yourself to your neighbor's. That means he is delayed and embarrassed. Both of you are hindered. The teacher frowns upon you. Two people, at least, and more beside, have registered a memory of you that isn't going to add to your reputation.

It is so easy to borrow things that you forget you have them until the aggrieved owner comes along and protests. Of course you meant to return the thing but you forgot. The owner does not forget. Even though he may not ask you about the article he remembers it, and begrudgingly, and registers a firm resolution to avoid lending you anything in the future. You lose a friend, and that is always a misfortune. Lost friends are like tombstones along the way.

Sometimes you borrow things without asking. You take your father's necktie; if you are a girl you use your mother's toilet accessories; you wear her hat. "She would let me," "He won't mind." But you didn't ask and that is an indication of weakness and such a weakness is not to be lightly taken. If you were so certain of permission why not ask for it? Fathers and mothers and brothers and sisters are entitled to consideration and courtesy. You would not think of helping yourself to the neighbors' things, or would you? The habit grows so fast that one never knows one's danger until it overcomes him.

Weak characters are the borrowers. Strong characters get along with what they have, save in the grave emergencies of sickness and danger and death. With these you seldom have to deal. Your lives know few such emergencies so they should know few occasions for borrowing.

When you borrow anything, ask for it. Charge yourself with its prompt return. Return it personally instead of leaving it for your mother to do. Thank the person who loaned it to you and make up your mind that you won't be caught like that again.

The old proverb is one to keep in mind here: "He who goes a-borrowing goes a-losing."
